

Wallace Again Up for Contempt

By REX THOMAS
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace faced a contempt of court showdown for the second time in his turbulent career today as Negroes sought to speed up school integration in Alabama.

Attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People filed a motion in federal court charging Wallace with violating a two-year-old court order.

They asked the three-judge court to hold the segregationist governor in civil contempt — which could bring an indefinite jail sentence — or, in the alternative, to order total statewide desegregation.

Wallace withheld comment but was expected to have something to say about it at a news conference today.

The NAACP motion contended the governor has disregarded an injunction handed down by the three-judge court July 13, 1964, prohibiting him from:

"Interfering with, preventing or obstructing by any means the elimination of racial discrimination by local school officials."

Failing to use his authority as governor to "promote and encourage" desegregation.

Since that time, the petition charged, Wallace — whose wife, Lurleen, is running for governor to succeed him — has committed repeated acts "with the sole purpose and effect of preventing and discouraging school integration."

Among them, it said, was the role he played in getting the Legislature to enact a state law prohibiting city and county school boards from agreeing to comply with integration guidelines laid down by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

In lieu of the contempt order, the NAACP asked the court to restrain Wallace from enforcing the new law, and to compel him to undo any acts already performed under the statute, including appointment of a governor's commission to administer the law.

In a separate suit filed earlier, the NAACP has asked another three-judge court to declare the antiintegration law unconstitutional.

The motion filed Thursday also asked the court to require Wallace to "accomplish and effectuate total desegregation of all the public schools" in Alabama, and to withhold state funds from school systems which have taken no steps toward desegregation.

Rules Change But Powell Hasn't Yet

By JOHN BECKLER
WASHINGTON (AP) — They changed the rules on Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, but whether they're going to change Powell remains to be seen.

Both Powell and his foes claimed victory.

Facing cheering hundreds from his Harlem district, Powell flashed the smile of a winner Thursday as he announced the House Education and Labor Committee had put through a string of reforms by a 27-1 vote.

"In substance," the New York Democrat said, "we have reaffirmed the rules of the House, by which we have always been bound. I consider this a very progressive step forward."

That was also the theme of the leaders of the revolt against him.

Rep. Sam M. Gibbons, D-Fla., who started the whole thing a week ago by proposing rules changes, said the committee had withdrawn "virtually all the chairman's delegated powers."

Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., who presented the rules changes at Thursday's meeting, called them "very significant."

One major change would authorize the chairman of a subcommittee which handles a bill to call it up for action if the chairman refuses to do so. Powell has been accused of pocketing committee-approved bills he doesn't like.

The committee majority also was given a veto over Powell's appointments of committee employees and his use of committee funds. The original proposal would have given these powers to a majority of the committee's 21 Democrats, but the revised version said Powell has authority to make staff changes "in consultation and with the approval of the majority."

The question is, will the majority exercise these powers?

Rep. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., for one, doubts it. "These changes could be meaningful if the Democrats want to make them so," he said. "But I'm afraid what's going to happen is that Adam will do just what he's been doing."

Other Republican members were harsher in their judgment of what had happened.

Rep. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., said the revolt amounted to "a wet noodle slap" at Powell. Rep. John N. Erlenborn, R-Ill., said, "What was supposed to be the battle of the year turned out to be cream puffs at 20 paces."

Negro leaders also were critical of the committee's action. The rules will expire when Congress adjourns, but the overwhelming vote for them made it probable they will be reaffirmed in January. Powell indicated he would accept such a move.

The simmering down of the revolt was not the end of Powell's troubles in this session, however. On Monday a special subcommittee of the House Administration Committee starts an investigation of his financial affairs.

Miss Wright Overcomes Weather

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Mickey Wright overcame 100-degree temperatures which wilted a field of 43 women golfers Thursday to take the first round in the Ladies Professional Golf Association National Open.

Miss Wright, Dallas, Tex., playing nearly flawless golf, scored 35-34—69 over the par-71 Stardust Country Club course. Louise Suggs, El Rey Beach, Fla., and Gloria Ehret, Danbury, Conn., were deadlocked for second place with 70s.

Kathy Whitworth, San Antonio, Tex., leading money winner on the tour, and Betsy Rawls, Spartanburg, S.C., matched par.

Defending champion Sandra Haynie shot a 76.

Rusk Will Sound Out Mr. Gromyko

An AP News Analysis
By LEWIS GULICK
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk plans to sound out Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko tonight for any signs of change in Kremlin foreign policy on Viet Nam and other outstanding issues.

Some U.S. experts believe Moscow may feel freer to deal with the West now that Red China's purge is damaging Peking's standing in the Chinese-Soviet rivalry for leadership of the Communist world.

According to this theory, the Soviets have been locked into a rigid position toward the United States in recent times because of Chinese charges that Moscow is conspiring with communism's enemy — the United States.

Now that the Kremlin's star is rising in the Red camp, these experts feel, Soviet leaders should feel less restricted by Peking's challenge.

Gromyko himself has shown no public softening since his arrival Sept. 18 for the U.N. General Assembly. He and other Communists have accused America of aggression in Viet Nam.

Rusk's meeting with Gromyko tonight, at dinner in Rusk's Waldorf Tower suite, was the first opportunity for such a high-level canvassing of views by representatives of the two governments since the two met here a year ago. At that time massive U.S. military action in South Viet Nam was relatively new and China's Red Guard rampage was still in the future.

One indicator of the importance Rusk attached to the meeting was a strict secrecy edict. The secretary of state, who sometimes equates successful diplomacy with quiet diplomacy, told aides and newsmen nothing would be given out on the substance of the talks, publicly or otherwise.

The advance opinion by the U.S. delegation here is that Gromyko will not press the Viet Nam issue to the point of linking it to all other items. The Soviets are expected to give their usual avowal on behalf of Hanoi — and go on to discuss other matters.

A sign of Soviet interest in talking over a broader range of topics is that Gromyko reportedly favors a second session with Rusk before the U.S. foreign affairs chief leaves New York at the end of the week.

Rusk was expected to urge Gromyko to promote peace talks on Viet Nam. Moscow has rebuffed past efforts along this line.

Another major item on Rusk's agenda is a treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons. He disputes Gromyko's contention that such a treaty is possible only if Washington abandons its plans to share some of the control of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's nuclear arsenal with its allies. The Soviets are determined to keep West Germany from getting near the nuclear trigger.

Thinks Youth Must Be Heard

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard E. Berlin, president of the Hearst Corp., says "youth has something to say and it will be said whether we want to hear it or not."

Berlin, addressing a meeting of the Magazine Publishers Association Tuesday said: "Our youth is neither lost nor beat nor desperate. Today's youth is an American citizen, a private person, an individual. They're worth knowing better, and I am sure we must urgently heed the voice of youth."

Says Tea Breaks Good for Workers

LONDON (AP) — America has its coffee breaks, England has its tea breaks. John McKenzie of the British Office of Health Economics says that as the tea break is lengthened, the work rate goes up; but out the traditional cup of afternoon tea, he says, and productivity is likely to go down. His theory, expressed in London Thursday British industry needs longer tea breaks.

Appointment Is Not Just a Coincidence

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — It hardly seems a coincidence that, two days after the 1966 civil rights bill was killed, President Johnson announced the appointment of Nicholas Katzenbach as undersecretary of state.

For months it was common knowledge in Washington that undersecretary George W. Ball, 56, wanted to resign his State Department post although no one seemed to know when or why.

As attorney general, Katzenbach, 44, was not only Johnson's chief architect in putting together the 1966 civil rights bill but the administration's chief spokesman and engineer in trying to get it through Congress.

He was also the principal authority on it as it crept on its tortured way through the House and finally over to the Senate. This took months in which Washington waited for official word of Ball's departure.

Katzenbach and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, had worked together in getting civil rights bills through Congress in 1964 and 1965. But this year Dirksen balked.

He was the bill's chief executioner as the Senate killed it last Monday. There was nothing more Katzenbach could do about that bill.

And then Wednesday Johnson announced: He was naming Katzenbach undersecretary of state to succeed Ball who resigned Saturday. To do this meant Katzenbach had to resign as attorney general, leave the President's Cabinet, and take a $5,000 annual salary cut.

The switch made Katzenbach No. 2 man in the State Department under Secretary of State Dean Rusk, whose resignation has also been rumored but with less certainty than Ball's.

Ball and Katzenbach have this in common — both are specialists in international law. Before he became the State Department's No. 2 man, Ball was widely experienced in foreign affairs. But this is a brand new field for Katzenbach.

Immediately after Johnson appointed Katzenbach — since Katzenbach was taking a reduction in rank and pay to move over to the State Department — there was speculation he would succeed Rusk sooner or later.

Later, if at all, seems the likely time for that switch, which means Rusk isn't likely to resign for many months. It will probably take Katzenbach that long to learn about wheeling and dealing in foreign affairs, although one Washington wit said: "Anyone who can deal with Dirksen won't have trouble with (Andre) Gromyko (the Russian foreign minister)."

Four men who served as attorney general became secretary of state: Edmund Randolph (1794), Jeremiah S. Black (1860), Richard Olney (1895) and Philander C. Knox (1909).

The way Johnson chose to announce the resignation and appointment Wednesday was another good example of his unpredictability. Late Tuesday night a Johnson press aide informed newsmen the President himself would conduct Wednesday morning's news briefing. This was extraordinary in itself.

There are usually two briefings a day at the White House when Johnson's press aides call in newsmen to tell them what the President wants known or to answer questions. These seldom provide major announcements. The President usually reserves them for himself.

Only 23 of the 146 prisoners in the Black Hole of Calcutta were still alive the next morning.

Legislation to Legalize Grid Merger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to legalize the proposed merger of the national and American football leagues goes before the full Senate after winning Judiciary Committee approval Thursday.

The measure provides that steps already taken to combine the two professional leagues would not be subject to antitrust action.

It would not grant complete antitrust immunity to the expanded league once it is established.

Under present merger plans, the 15 NFL teams and nine AFL teams would be combined into one league. Two more teams would be added by 1968 and eventually a total of 28 would be reached.

Plans include a championship game next January between champions of the NFL and AFL, a combined player draft and interleague preseason games next summer.

The Senate bill was introduced shortly after Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, refused to act on Senate-passed legislation completely exempting the merger from antitrust laws.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The final hour of prime network time on Wednesday nights this season promises to be the most difficult period of the week for the viewing audience. The 10-11 (EDT) spot is a time of agonizing decision.

The question, of course, is whether to tune in on the antics of CBS' Danny Kaye and company. Or to sample the offering of ABC's anthology series, "Stage 67" which is the network's most ambitious effort of the season. Or to enjoy the cloak and dagger adventures and repartee of NBC's "I Spy."

This viewer chose "I Spy" Wednesday night as it returns a hit for its second season. And it was a good night for a visit — Bill Cosby was the co-star who was carrying the love interest.

This season, it appears, the two merry intrepid agents will be operating in new territory. Last season it was the Hong Kong-Tokyo area. Wednesday night the show opened with the stabbing of a nuclear scientist in Paris and wound up with the usual hand to hand combat on the outskirts of Las Vegas.

Quite often, because there is usually a pretty white girl involved, the romantic parts go to co-star Robert Culp.

The easy interplay between the two actors, the casual approach and the adventurous theme of the well-produced hour makes the show, this season as well as last, one of the most entertaining hours of the schedule. Which is why this viewer among many devoutly wishes ABC could have found some other spot for its anthology series which deserves attention, too.

CBS' "Gomer Pyle," back for a third season, faces some formidable competition this season even for a company of Marines. The military comedy has been pulled out of its comfortable Friday evening spot and placed opposite ABC's "Peyton Place."

The Jim Nabors show still relies completely on the relationship between an irascible and conniving sergeant, played at top voice by Frank Sutton, and the naive, and literal Gomer.

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help US!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to Helen Help US!, this newspaper.

HOKUM, HE SAYS!

Dear Helen: I just read another fatuous article about a famous movie and TV personality. Seems he treats the common serf like people instead of slaves, and so they gush mightily about his "common touch," how "king and considerate" he is on the set. Why, he didn't blow up once! And he was never more than a half hour late!

Hokum! Since when does having money make you so above being decent that writers' tooft you to the skies simply because you act the way people are expected to act? Fame certainly shouldn't give anyone the right to trample "underlings" — or even consider them underlings. Nor should it change people into tyrants. If they are tyrants, that's news. If they aren't, why make a Big Thing of it?

So why this Oh and Ah business? — On My Way Up

Dear On: Seems ridiculous, doesn't it? But that's the way the typewriter clatters.

Reminds me of the time a writer, whose name I have happily forgotten, emoted, "And Mrs. Bottel has been married 25 years — to the SAME HUSBAND!" Why not, 'heavensake? I like the guy! — H.

Dear Helen: I was interested in your "Are chroniclers of our times reporting trends or creating them?" as I have a theory: If suddenly all over the world every news media started reporting at every opportunity that sex talk was passe, within a year we will all be saying "Ho hum!" whenever the word was mentioned.

We're a world full of sheep. We do as we're told, even unto pointed-toed shoes and getting bug-eyed over something as private as love. We'll believe anything, if we're bombarded with it often enough — and that can work in reverse too. — Philosopher

Dear Phil: While you're probably right, let's hope your theory is never proved with all the wrong "propaganda."

I probably never will be. Why? Because of our tendency to over-publicize every new concept — from psychiatry to the sex revolution — then laugh it down to its rightful place in society, and go on to the next "starter." — H.

WHO CAN SHE BLAME?

Dear Helen: Nowadays it seems like the children run their parents.

My boy is 16 and looks and acts uncivilized in my opinion. His pants are skin tight, his hair too long, his temper too short and his morals too loose.

He dates late and other parents get angry and blame us instead of my son.

How can I make him civilized? — K. A. Z.

Dear K: You started 16 years late. Children who run their parents have parents who would rather gripe than switch, when a switch is definitely indicated. Stop running and face facts: You ARE responsible for your son's actions, and you CAN call the tune as long as he lives under your roof.

It's time you left off fiddling around and blew the whistle on a boy who might even welcome it. — H.

Dear Helen: I sympathize with "Mrs. Blue and Downhearted" whose friends desert her when she is ill. It has happened to me over and over again. Even my doctor deserts me. I have been sick all my life, with stomach trouble, heart troubles, pains, headaches, and probably worse that stupid doctors can't find. Nobody bothers to visit me or call me up, though I call people whenever they're ill. I can usually tell them what's wrong because I've had the same thing. I get Very Depressed because all my symptoms point to terminal heart disease and my doctor insists I just need to get out and do things.

Please send me Mrs. B. and D.'s address so I can write and cheer her up. — Also Forsaken

Dear A.F.: Sorry, Mrs. B. and D. needs your brand of "cheer" like Old Mother Hubbard needs company for dinner. — H.

President Kennedy's popularity dwindled in 1963, the pollsters said, because he was pushing civil rights too hard. Johnson pushed them harder and more successfully, getting two bills through Congress. He was blocked on a third this week.

His performance in this field hurt him in the polls but there were other complaints: his handling of various problems, like the war in Viet Nam, the anti-poverty program, the economy, and so on.

Cab Driver Gives Police Slaying Lead

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
KENILWORTH, Ill. (AP) — Authorities investigating the slaying of Valerie Percy disclosed today a possible lead volunteered by a Chicago cab driver.

Police said the driver, Leo Yancey, 44, told them a fare in his cab Sunday morning resembled a man in a published picture of a suspect sought for an attack on a young woman in Evanston. The man in the picture also is regarded by authorities as a possible suspect in the Percy case.

Valerie, 21, daughter of Republican leader Charles H. Percy, was found stabbed and beaten to death in the bedroom of the family home in Kenilworth Sunday morning. Evanston, like Kenilworth, is a North Shore suburb of Chicago.

Yancey told police he drove the man to Glenview, also a North Shore suburb. Details of the cab driver's statement, along with his name and address, were sent to Capt. Maurice Higgins, head of the state's attorney's corps of investigators.

Kenilworth police, who are coordinating the murder investigation, planned to drag Lake Michigan near the Percy home today to find possible clues. Chief Robert Daley said his men would use the Kenilworth police boat and would be aided by the Coast Guard.

Meanwhile, a threat to murder Percy and other top Republicans came to light as investigators pressed their hunt for the killer.

The existence of the letter containing the threat to Percy and other politicians was revealed by Illinois State Sen. W. Russell Arrington of Evanston, Republican leader of the Senate.

The letter, mailed in May, threatened Percy and other political figures with a "one-way ride."

Daley said he will question persons who applied for work in Percy's campaign to unseat Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., and who were not accepted. Daley said Percy had rejected reports that he had barred several former campaign aides from the family home.

The Percy family and 300 relatives atives and friends attended memorial services Tuesday for Valerie. Her body was cremated.

"We don't have anyone we could classify as a suspect," said Daley. He said that the scores of investigators, including the FBI and detectives from the Chicago Police Department, had developed "no substantial clues or evidence."

Arrington said the letter, addressed to Percy and postmarked in Chicago, threatened not only Percy, but former Vice President Richard M. Nixon; Barry Goldwater; Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill.; Rep. Gerald Ford, R-Mich.; the House minority leader, and Arrington.

Arrington said the three-page letter warned the GOP leaders to be "careful of what you say," and was signed, "The Boys From Out of Town."

Investigators said Percy's life had been threatened during his unsuccessful campaign for election as Illinois' governor two years ago and he has periodically received other crank letters.

All such threats and letters would be pursued, Chief Daley said.

TAXI SERVICE, Vietnamese style, may have its points but this had, being noted by Navy hospital corpsman W. R. Matthews of Charleston, Ind., to a Marine Civil Affairs function near Da Nang, seems to have some doubts. U.S. troops assisted families in reaching a "Country Fair" operation, part of a continuing effort to win support of villagers.

FALLS & MINOR INJURIES

By DR. CHARLES JOHNSON

Falls, shocks, and all injuries large or small may cause spinal displacements which lead to acute or chronic diseases by shutting off vital nerve energy so necessary for harmonious body function.

While writing this article, I was thinking of a young mother in her 30's who after a minor auto accident began having severe headaches, neck aches and cramps, chest pain, and sleepless nights. We located a whiplash spinal condition. Now, thanks to modern Scientific Chiropractic she is enjoying normal health again.

Baltimore Finally Wins Crown

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer
ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — "It's great, but it's a good thing it only happens once a year."

That was the cryptic comment from weary third baseman Brooks Robinson when a raucous two-hour clubhouse party came to an end as the Baltimore Orioles celebrated their first American League pennant.

"I was on nine pennant winners with the New York Yankees but this is the wildest celebration I ever saw," said Manager Hank Bauer.

"But this one means more to me than the others because I was manager."

After Russ Snyder made a diving catch in left center field for the final out Thursday as Jim Palmer beat Kansas City 6-1, the Orioles trooped into the clubhouse and the party was under way.

Corks on champagne bottles began popping amid screams and shouts.

Everyone within sight, including Orioles Board Chairman Jerold C. Hoffberger, was either thrown into the showers or doused with champagne, beer, shaving cream, milk, pickles, mustard or a variety of other food set out on a table in the clubhouse.

Perhaps the happiest of all was slugger Frank Robinson, who was obtained in a trade with the Cincinnati Reds last December and probably nailed down the Most Valuable Player award while leading the Orioles to the flag.

Robinson already has earned the unofficial MVP award for helping restore order aboard the team's bus and later on the charter plane, settling several disputes.

"It's nice to be wanted," Robinson kept repeating. The outfielder had said frequently during the season that he didn't understand why Cincinnati General Manager Bill DeWitt had traded him away.

"I'll tell you one thing," Robinson said, "it's better being on top than in sixth place" — referring to the current standing of the Reds.

Hoffberger, in a rare display of effrontery, called DeWitt in Cincinnati at the height of the celebration.

"Years ago when I saw you at a baseball meeting," Hoffberger said, "I knew you were going to help me... and you did. I really want to thank you and I appreciate everything you've done for us."

"Ask him if he has any more players like Robinson," Bauer said.

Curt Blefary, a 23-year-old outfielder in his second major league season, perhaps had the explanation.

"I haven't had a good night's sleep in a month and a half, tossing and turning and worrying all night," Blefary said. "We've been tense despite our big lead because we've got so many young players on this club."

"In Thursday's game, I was so excited my hands were shaking. I was paying almost as much attention to the game in Detroit as I was our own game. The guys in our bullpen had the Tigers' game on the radio and kept telling us the score."

Detroit lost to California 5-3 just before the Baltimore game ended.

"There's never been a party like this one," Blefary said. "And you know what? We might have five more like this in a row."

Bauer, in his third season as Orioles' manager, captured the pennant after leading the team to a pair of third-place finishes.

By Coach Freddie Glaze
Schoolboy football program go into the 4th week of the season and no sportswriter could have stated it better than our own Larry Don Wright when he said, "Hope Starts Grueling District Stretch."

For the fan that watches the schedule of all the district teams he has found out that starting this week there are seven conference teams in a row. No other team in the conference plays more than five in succession except Crossett and they only six.

What does this mean as far as our ball club is concerned? Personally, we do not approach the schedule from this standpoint at all. We play one game at a time and I'm sure not a member of the team is looking further ahead than Smackover at this point. This is the only way to play the game of football, as those who look ahead may find themselves behind.

Last week in preparing for DeQueen we made some changes that we felt benefited our offensive game very much. Some boys made moves to positions that they had never played before, Freddie Easterling, our starting fullback moved to an end position and turned in a fine performance. He is the type of boy that will move to any position as long as it benefits the team.

Dennis Turner moved from guard to fullback and an exceptional job blocking. David Fincher made the move from tackle to guard without any trouble and also turned in a good performance. Stan Parris moved back to end and as usual performed fine.

Danny Turner who was our "B" team tailback in 1965 moved into the slot vacated by Parris and picked up 126 yards rushing. He now trails Jessie Riley of Crossett by only six points in scoring.

With all the above changes in personnel one might expect confusion, but this was not true due to the attitude each boy took in an attempt to improve our offensive game. The ball club approached this problem in a manner that a football team should.

The linemen felt they could block better and the backs felt they could run harder and what more can a coach ask for. Even with the little improvement we made last week we have worked hard this week to be more consistent and cut out unnecessary mistakes.

We realize that the season will get harder and harder and improvement must be made as we play each game. This is the sign of a good football team, one that is never satisfied with their past performance and is looking forward to the next contest expecting to improve over their last effort.

I was asked after the DeQueen game to point out the outstanding boys of the game. It gives you a good feeling to be able to state that each boy put forth an effort that any coach would be proud of.

They boys are looking forward to seeing you at Smackover Friday night, game time 7:30.

B Team Is Defeated by Texarkana

By LARRY DON WRIGHT
The Hope Bobcat "B" team suffered a 6-0 set back at the hands of the Arkansas Junior varsity of Texarkana last night in Hammons Stadium.

The Hope boys were unable to score after having a first and goal at the Texarkana two yard line mid way through the last quarter of play. But the T-town defense rose to make an outstanding goal line stand and throw the home boys for a yard loss in the series of four downs.

Expect for the Texarkana touchdown which came on a mix up causing a 60-yard fumble recovery return, neither team moved well the whole game. In general the contest was hard fought defensive battle with an unusual number of punts.

The visitors lone TD came on the first play of the fourth period. It was set up after a Texarkana defender picked up Hope QB — Larry Massanelli's fumble just as the buzzer sounded ending the third quarter.

That set up a Texarkana First down at the Hope three from where the visitors took it across on the first play.

Polyandry in Tibet

Polyandry is still practiced in Tibet to a certain extent. Because it is very hard to support a family there, when men marry several of them may marry the same wife and work together to support the family.

Hematoma, Hemiparesis Are Terms Used in Strokes

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—What is an intracerebral hematoma with left hemiparesis? What can be done for it?

A—An intracerebral hematoma is a collection of trapped blood within the brain. Although it may be caused by a direct injury to the skull or by an infection, the usual cause is a rupture of a severely hardened artery—often accompanying high blood pressure. Hemiparesis is extreme weakness or paralysis of one side of the body—in other words a stroke.

The outlook depends on the extent of the damage and the skill of the attending physician. With time and modern methods of rehabilitation many stroke victims make a remarkable comeback.

Q—Please explain in simple terms what is meant by "two areas of amorphous calcification in the left frontal lobe area and meninges; does not appear to be vascular." Is there any treatment?

A—The X-ray examination of the skull revealed two areas of shapeless or irregular calcium deposits in the front part of the brain and in the thin membrane (meninges) that covers the brain but apparently no calcium deposits in the arteries in this region.

Without more information I could not presume to say what caused these changes but they are not the type that can be dissolved or removed surgically.

"We are pretty well surrounded, sir," said the Marine officer over the field radio. "Every time we try to move our wounded, we get shot at and pick up more casualties. Request advice."

The anxious call came from 1st Lt. Daniel McMahon, commander of D Company, 4th Marine Regiment. He and his men were pinned down and encircled on a low, jungle-covered hill three miles south of the demilitarized zone separating North and South Viet Nam.

McMahon's battalion commander, ZLI, Col. Jack (Black Jack) Westerman replied from a tank on a hilltop less than a mile away: "Dan, move very, very slowly. Try to find out exactly where the fire is coming from and put all your firepower in there."

"That's exactly what I'm doing, sir," said McMahon, "but the jungle is so thick it's impossible to see where they are. We are receiving fire from all sides."

All around McMahon and the men of D Company were soldiers of the North Vietnamese.

For McMahon, who comes from Oceanside, Long Island, N.Y., the encirclement last Friday morning began a three-day nightmare of trying to get his wounded out and holding off the enemy.

The North Vietnamese, using classic ambush tactics, had let D Company's two lead platoons pass through a valley and then hit the third platoon.

The third platoon, under withering fire from machine guns and small arms, took heavy casualties but managed to work its way to the top of the hill to join the other two platoons.

Westerman, the battalion commander from Bremerton, Wash., set up his forward observation post on a nearby hilltop and from a tank kept radio contact with his company commanders.

Westerman ordered B Company, which had been close behind D Company, to join McMahon's encircled men, hack out a helicopter landing zone and evacuate the wounded.

But helicopters couldn't get in for the next 24 hours.

Friday night the enemy crept so close to McMahon's company that the opposing infantrymen threw hand grenades at each other from 30 feet.

McMahon said he could hear the North Vietnamese talking and cutting down trees and bushes to set up machine-gun positions.

Shortly after noon Saturday, a Marine helicopter tried to land to pick up wounded. It was hit by enemy fire and wrecked as it landed. The landing zone was so small that the wreckage prevented other helicopters from landing.

McMahon's men pushed the damaged chopper to the side and other helicopters began to get in.

For some unknown reason, the North Vietnamese opened fire on some of the helicopters, but let others land.

It kept up like this all day Saturday, with the two Marine companies pinned down and burrowing foxholes all over their small encircled hill.

Marine planes and artillery were giving the North Vietnamese a bad time also. The Communists kept moving around in the valleys but still surrounded the hill.

Q—How many of the 37 March presidential inaugurations fell on Sunday?

A—Only four. As a result, the public ceremonies of 1821, 1849, 1877, and 1917 were postponed until the following day.

Q—What is the meaning of the name Ruth?

A—This Hebrew name means "beauty."

Tells How 2 Companies of Marines Fared

EDITOR'S NOTE — For three days and nights, two companies of U.S. Marines were cut off by North Vietnamese regulars on a hill just south of the demilitarized zone. Associated Press photographer Henru Huet reached them with a Marine rescue battalion.

The albatross is one of the most powerful flying sea birds in the world. There is evidence that the phenomenal homing instinct of these birds has enabled them to circumnavigate the southern hemisphere one or more times between breeding seasons. One albatross, taken from its nesting place on Midway Island to the North Pacific, made the return trip of 3,200 miles in just over 10 days, at an average speed of 317 miles per day.

Put yourself in South's position after West opens the deuce of spades against your slam contract. You apply the code word ARCH. Analyze the lead and it looks as if West has opened low from three. If the deuce were a singleton then East would have seven spades. Review the bidding. East has overcalled with a five card suit. He almost surely holds the king of diamonds to give him enough for an overcall. Count your winners and losers. You have enough winners but if the diamond finesse is wrong, as you expect, you have two losers before you can cash in. How can you make the hand? If West holds the king of diamonds you have a simple diamond finesse but you have already decided that he doesn't have it. You can try for an end play. If trumps break 2-2 you can draw trumps, play out three hearts in order to discard one of dummy's spades, ruff your fourth heart and throw East in with a spade. The trouble with that line of play is that West probably holds a spade honor and East can play low in order to let West win that trick and lead a diamond. Thus, there is no legitimate play but a swindle may work. South does draw trumps. Then he leads dummy's ace of diamonds and continues with the deuce. East may duck on the theory that South started with the singleton seven of diamonds. South will take his jack, game, slam and rubber.

Cosa Nostra Bosses Out on Bail

NEW YORK (AP) — A State Supreme Court justice today held 13 Cosa Nostra bosses in a total of $1.3-million bail after their arrest Thursday in what was described as the biggest raid involving crime syndicate figures since the 1957 Apalachin conference.

Bail was set at $100,000 each for the 13, all listed as prominent members of the Cosa Nostra's national crime network by underworld informer Joseph Valachi.

Justice Joseph M. Conroy said the men were being held as material witnesses in the investigation of "major crimes" in Queens County. The group was remanded to civil jail when they were unable to post bond.

Chief Inspector Sanford Garelik, who directed the roundup Thursday, called it the most important since the gangland conference at Apalachin, N.Y., in 1957 was broken up by state police. Sixty top hoodlums and their friends were arrested then.

The raid Thursday came as the group was eating in a basement dining room at La Stella restaurant in Forest Hills, Queens. The community, about 20 minutes from Manhattan by car, is known for its comfortable apartment houses and tennis stadium, home of the national singles championships.

Garelik said none of the Mafia's top bosses were at the "Little Apalachin" meeting carried less than $600 in cash in his pockets. He described them to newsmen as "elegantly dressed" and wearing "expensive jewelry."

Among those charged with "conspiring with known criminals" were: Thomas (Tommy Ryan) Eboli, once barred as a fight manager after purchasing a referee, and now top man in the family of imprisoned Brooklyn leader Vito Genovese, considered the syndicate's "boss of bosses."

Michael Miranda, a guest at the Apalachin meeting, and underboss of a New York Cosa Nostra family.

Carlos Marcello of New Orleans, described in Senate testimony as the Mafia's Southern chieftain and a one-time partner of Frank Costello.

Santo Trafficante, a Cosa Nostra bigshot in Florida and former head of rackets in pre-Castro Cuba.

Others arrested were Don Alonzi, Aniello Della Croce of California, Frank Gagliano of New Orleans, Anthony Corallo of Louisiana and California, Joseph Marcello of Texas, brother of Carlos, and Joseph Gallo of New Orleans. He is not connected with the Gallo brothers of Brooklyn.

Deputies said the purpose of the raid was to keep track of how the men relate to each other in importance within the underworld hierarchy.

Queens District Attorney Nat H. Hentel said he planned to subpoena the 13 to appear at a special grand jury session investigating the meeting.

Bayou Work Recommended

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP)— Army Engineers have recommended to Congress authorization of two public works projects in Arkansas, one on Bayou Bartholomew and its tributaries and the other in the St. Francis River Basin.

The Bartholomew flood control work in Arkansas and Louisiana would cost an estimated $9.72 million. Similar work in the St. Francis basin in Arkansas and Missouri would cost about $7.76 million.

New Planes Will Cost $700 Million

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson Administration, faced with a steadily steepening air war in Viet Nam, has ordered 280 additional warplanes in fiscal 1968 at a cost of $700 million.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, announcing this Thursday, said most of the additional aircraft will go to the Navy which he said has had a higher loss rate per mission than originally expected.

The defense chief emphasized that this far in the Viet Nam war the over-all aircraft loss rate is running "somewhat less than we estimated." But he also noted that sorties have exceeded original estimates by 5 to 10 per cent.

Pentagon figures show 505 U. S. planes have been downed in Viet Nam fighting to date, with 383 losses in North Viet Nam and 122 in the South.

In a statement, McNamara said the boost — estimated to be about 33 per cent over planned production — "was based on many factors, including projections on number and types of sorties and predicted loss rates."

But another Defense source put it this way: "We're going to lose more Navy planes than we thought."

Navy planes, it was explained, are now flying attack missions in increased numbers over strategic targets in North Viet Nam. These are described by officials as higher loss-rate objectives.

McNamara told a news conference the planned production of warplanes in both fiscal 1967 and fiscal 1968, the year that begins next July 1, had been 800 to 1,000.

The secretary, while refusing to discuss specific contract awards, said the added warplanes will be purchased "from production lines now open or to be open."

He said the Defense Department has "adequate funds at the present time to place this initial production on order," but again noted that it is "highly probable" a supplemental defense appropriation will be sought later.

Republicans Vision a Public Mandate Come November 8

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winthrop Rockefeller, the Republican candidate for governor, said he not only thinks he will win the Nov. 8 general election, but that he will receive a mandate.

Rockefeller carried his campaign into extreme northwest Arkansas Thursday, opening his headquarters at Rogers. Meanwhile, Mrs. Virginia Johnson, wife of Democratic nominee Jim Johnson, told a Little Rock civic club her husband was invited to the people, "not the machine or the governor makers."

Rockefeller said at Rogers that he thought his 1964 campaign for governor had peaked too early and that this year his campaign is better organized.

He said there are more GOP candidates on the ballot this year than at any other time in the state's history.

"We are giving the people of Arkansas a team in 1966," Rockefeller said. "But we have a lot of work to do in the remaining 50 days before the election."

"From what I can see," he said, "on Nov. 8 we will not only have a victory, we will have a mandate."

Earlier in the day, Rockefeller said at Little Rock that he is not trying to buy the governor's office.

He said any such charge is slapping at the integrity of the people of Arkansas.

"I have something to sell—truth instead of falsehood, decency instead of deceit, help instead of slurs, ideas instead of insults, fairness instead of fanaticism, work instead of words," Rockefeller said.

Mrs. Johnson said her husband was concerned with unity within the ranks of the Democratic Party, but that he was more concerned with being true to his principles.

"It should be our greatest concern that our country is moving in the opposite direction from the principles upon which it was founded," she said.

She said control in state government has returned to the people since her husband's nomination.

Arkansans can retain that control by voting for Johnson in the general election, Mrs. Johnson said.

She said the state stands at the crossroads.

"We can make a god of government or we can make a government of God," she said.

Prince to Wed a Commoner
DUSSELDORF, Germany (AP) — The parents of Prince Michael of Prussia have reluctantly approved his marriage to a commoner. The marriage defies a decree of his great grandfather, Kaiser Wilhelm II.

The prince, 26, told reporters of his parents' decision Thursday in Dusseldorf. He is to wed Jutta Joern, 23, a secretary he met while working in a New York airline office.

Under Kaiser Wilhelm's decree, Prince Michael will lose the right of succession as head of the house and also will be disinherited.

Expects Russia to Answer Peace Offer by Condemning U.S.

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko was expected to respond indirectly today to the new U.S. peace offer for Viet Nam with a condemnation of U.S. military operations there.

Informed observers also predicted that Gromyko would have a lot to say about European security in an hour-long address in the U.N. General Assembly's general debate.

The U.S. offer of a mutual de-escalation of the war was made in the assembly debate Thursday by Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg.

He said the United States is prepared to stop all bombing of North Viet Nam the moment it is assured, "privately or otherwise," that North Viet Nam will promptly take "corresponding and timely steps to reduce or bring to an end its own military activities against South Viet Nam."

He also called on North Viet Nam to agree to a time schedule for "supervised phased withdrawal from South Viet Nam of all external forces — those of North Viet Nam as well as those from the United States and other countries aiding South Viet Nam."

Gromyko and U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk dined together and discussed East-West issues for three hours at Rusk's New York hotel suite Thursday night. Gromyko invited Rusk to dinner at the Soviet delegation headquarters Saturday night to continue the talks.

Neither side would say what came up at the meeting, the first between the U.S. and Soviet foreign affairs chiefs since a year ago. But Viet Nam and disarmament presumably were high on the list.

Gromyko said the atmosphere was "normal." A U.S. spokesman said "it wasn't unfriendly" and the talks were "useful."

The General Assembly's 23-nation steering committee Thursday night finished recommending a 95-item agenda for the assembly and suggesting in which committee each item should be debated.

The committee made most of its decisions by general consent but voted 11-3 with nine abstentions against a Soviet proposal to bar the question of Korean unification.
